ARHS 2210/50 – INTRODUCTION TO THE HISTORY OF WESTERN ART (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREAS 3 AND 7)

Instructor: Dr. Sarah Cormack

Meeting Time: Tuesday and Thursday, 1:30 p.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

This lecture course introduces students to the vast array of art objects - including paintings, sculptures, buildings, and decorative art - created in the Western world; the course follows a chronological narrative beginning with the cultures of the ancient Mediterranean, and continuing up to the late 19th century. In addition to discussing traditional stylistic issues (form, style, medium and technique), we will also address circumstances of production and reception, and the cultural contexts that inform the creation of visual art. This is an introductory survey course with no pre-requisites. Attendance at lectures is required.

ARHS 2350/50 – INTRODUCTION TOPICS IN ART HISTORY: READING & INTERPRETING PHOTOGRAPHIC IMAGES (GEN. ED. AREAS 3 AND 7)

Instructor: Dr. Monika Schwärzler-Brodesser
Meeting Time: Tuesday and Thursday, 11:15 a.m. – 1:15 p.m.
Class Limit: 25

In times of digital imagery, analogue photography seems to become more and more anachronistic but nonetheless continues to shape our conception of the photographic medium. The course will familiarize students with different styles and concepts of photographic production and touch on important issues from the history of photography. Outstanding photographers who shaped the visual language of their time will be introduced. Although the course will concentrate on photography as a means of artistic expression it will not limit itself to the field of art but will also establish connections with amateur and commercial photography. The aim of the course is it to provide students with a multifaceted approach to photography and turn them into critical readers of photographic imagery.

ART 1700/50 – PHOTO I (SEMESTER COURSE)

Instructor: Mr. Tav Falco
Meeting Time: Tuesday, 3 p.m. – 6 p.m.
NOTE: An art materials fee of €60 will be charged for this course.
Class Limit: 15

This course surveys photography as a technology and as a social, commercial, and artistic medium. Concentration on practical areas of photography: technical skills, creativity, and composition. Control of photo equipment, analog/digital imaging techniques and experimentation. By theoretical and practical work, it reveals the specific character of photography, and compares photography with other media like painting, sculpture, and music. It explains photography as a visual language of different genres and provides a purview of the history of photography. The course emphasizes critical thinking and aesthetic perception leading to an understanding of what is called the "intelligence" and the "secret of a photo". Prerequisites: ART 1010-Creative Strategies, or ART 1210-Design: 2-D, or permission of the instructor.

Instructor: Dr. Maria Madlberger
Meeting Time: Wednesday, 11:30 a.m. – 2:30 p.m.
Class Limit: 25

This course teaches scientific research techniques employed in gathering information concerning marketing and advertising practices and procedures. For this purpose, the semester course comprises a real-life quantitative marketing research project that involves the whole class. Students undergo each phase of a research project, e.g., formulation of research objectives, literature research, hypotheses development, collection of data, sampling, statistical analyses, and interpretation of data. Several units will be held in the computer lab to apply the statistical software PASW (former SPSS).

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY

COAP 2000/50 – XHTML PROGRAMMING

Instructor: Mr. Branko Jovanovski, M.B.A.
Meeting Time Thursday, 6 p.m. – 10 p.m.
Class Limit: 20

The World Wide Web is 20 years old in 2011 and HyperText Markup Language (HTML) is the programming language that kick-started the World Wide Web and makes the Internet useable. It is as responsible for the Internet revolution as the mangle of cables, routers and Wi-Fi devices that have transformed the way we use information. First used as a basic language for creating personal home pages and simple web sites, HTML has evolved into its current form, XHTML (Extensible HTML). XHTML is the backbone of the web on which all online content relies for navigation, presentation and structure. This makes XHTML the industry standard programming language that supports and drives the myriad applications found on the web today. These applications range from basic home pages, multimedia and social networking to the multi-billion dollar economic phenomenon that only a few short years ago could not have been imagined. In this course you will look under the hood of XHTML and cover the basics of XHTML and HTML programming. A significant part of this course deals with hands-on exercises that will provide students with relevant and tangible experience which they can immediately put into action. Students will use text editors to write and troubleshoot XHTML and HTML code and will be introduced to industry standard (X)HTML software tools for developing and posting web pages on the World Wide Web. If you are one of the many who would find it difficult to live without the web and you have an idea you would like to share with billions of people, taking this course will enable you to acquire the knowledge to do it. This is the first course in the Web Design program as it is offered in Webster's Vienna campus.

COSC 1550/50 – COMPUTER PROGRAMMING I (SEMESTER COURSE, GEN. ED. AREA 1)

Instructor: Mr. Ioan Vlad, M.S.
Meeting Time: Monday and Wednesday, 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.
Class Limit: 20

Introduces students to the C++ language in order to teach programming as a systematic discipline and as a problem-solving tool. Acquaints students with fundamental concepts of computers, information processing, algorithms, and programs. May be repeated once for credit. Only offered in a 16-week format.

COSC 4110/50 – DATABASE CONCEPTS

Instructor: Dr. Florin Abazi
Meeting Time: Monday, 6 p.m. – 10 p.m.
Class Limit: 20

Students in this course will study database design using the relational model and the Entity-Relationship model. Students will study and use the SQL query language. Database design considerations will include data integrity, relational integrity, redundancy, and security. Students will develop a logical design for a database that will be implemented in COSC 4120. Prerequisites: COSC 1560, COSC 2810 and Junior Standing.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

HIST 3150/50 – INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS: POLITICAL IDEOLOGIES IN 20TH CENTURY EUROPE

Instructor: Dr. Lonnie Johnson
Meeting Time: Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a.m. – 11 a.m.
Class Limit: 25

The purpose of this course is to introduce students to European political ideas and ideologies as they developed in the 19th century and evolved in the 20th century. Therefore, it will be a survey of ideas as well as a survey of events. Prerequisites: 6 credits of international relations or permission of the instructor.

INTL 2680/50 – INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS: POLITICAL THEORY (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREAS 4 and 5)

Instructor: Dr. Johannes Pollak
Meeting Time: Wednesday, 6 p.m. – 9 p.m.
Class Limit: 25

This course provides a succinct introduction to IR theories. It is structured around the main schools of IR theory and central IR concepts such as power, state, justice and war. The course is dedicated to the main theories – from Realism to Neo-Realism to Liberalism. Rationalism and Constructivism – their contextual development, and their main claims. Those theories differ with respect to the central concepts, their understanding of the human nature, and their explanatory power.

INTL 3100/50 – INTERNATIONAL POLITICAL ECONOMY (SEMESTER COURSE)

Instructor: Dr. Eric Frey

Meeting Time: Monday, 9 a.m. – 12 p.m.

NOTE: This is a combined course for international relations and management majors. Accordingly, you may register for it as INTL 3100 or ECON 3100.

Class Limit: 25

See course description ECON 3100. Prerequisites: sophomore standing or above and POLT 1050 or 6 credit hours of relevant political science, history, or international relations courses.

POLT 1050/50 – INTRODUCTION TO INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN.ED. AREA 6)

Instructor: Dr. Franco Algeri

Meeting Time: Wednesday, 1:30 p.m. – 4:30 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

Examines the nature and uses of power. Covers development of the nation-state system in history, international relations and diplomatic usage, international law and organization, and specific problems in international relations in the world today.

POLT 1050/51 – INTRODUCTION TO INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN.ED. AREA 6)

Instructor: Dr. Franco Algeri

Meeting Time: Wednesday, 5 p.m. – 8 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

See course description above.

POLT 1070/50 – INTRODUCTION TO POLITICAL THEORY (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREAS 4 and 5)

Instructor: Dr. Emmanuel Sigalas

Meeting Time: Monday, 6 p.m. – 9 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

The objective of this course is to introduce students to a selection of the most important political texts and theories by going through the development of political thought over the ages. The course offers an introduction into political theory applying a chronological approach but ensuring thematic coverage. Topics like freedom, democracy, representation, nationalism, liberalism etc. will be discussed with the aim to understand the logic of argument of their main proponents. Students will be required to read some original material and participate actively in class.

POLT 1070/51 – INTRODUCTION TO POLITICAL THEORY (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREAS 4 and 5)

Instructor: Dr. Emmanuel Sigalas

Meeting Time: Wednesday, 6 p.m. – 9 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

See course description above.

POLT 4200/50 – ADVANCED STUDIES IN POLITICAL THEORY: GENDER STUDIES

Instructor: Dr. Petra Purkarthofer

Meeting Time: Tuesday, 6 p.m. – 10 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

This course will explore core questions in Political Theory. Why is it important to apply a gender perspective? Why has gender been generally invisible or of no relevance to Political Theory? What are the effects of an andocentric practice of our discipline, which sets male experience as the norm while at the same time it assumes that its terms are gender neutral? Why have gender relations for so long been of no concern to the discipline of Political Science/International Relations, although we are obviously talking about social relations and power relations? After discussing these epistemological questions the participants will become familiar with different Feminist Theories. There are different feminist approaches explaining the causes of women's oppression, the nature of gender relations, the understanding of gender or the conclusions on how to overcome gender inequality. The participants will discuss and compare different approaches such as Liberal, Radical, Marxist, Postmodern and Postcolonial Feminism (among others). Applying those theories to some case studies the concluding part will expose the importance of theory in social research. Prerequisites: 6 credit hours of political science, including a prior course in political theory, or permission of the instructor. May be repeated for credit if content differs.

MEDIA COMMUNICATIONS

ANIM 3150/50 – STOP MOTION ANIMATION (SEMESTER COURSE)

Instructor: Mag. Stefan Stratil

Meeting Time: Thursday, 1:30 p.m. – 4:30 p.m.

NOTE 1: A lab fee of €90 will be charged for this course.

Class Limit: 15

The course focuses on the creative procedure during the making of an illustration. After studying and discussing a choice of high class publishing and advertising illustrations the students will have an overview of the professional working steps from an illustration job conference that leads to a proper briefing, going on to the creative part with brainstorming, sketching and finally practical work in a technique of the student's choice (both digital or analog works are welcome). Solutions for the realization of complex topics will be explained and discussed as well as the practical steps from the first idea-scribbles to the finished artwork. This class is creating a bridge between creative approaches and the business side of illustration art in a commercial environment. Students will understand the meaning of illustration in publishing and advertising and will get experience in how to visualize complex topics. Participants will get to know the working steps in a professional illustration job and will then work out a concept and a draft for a publishing or advertising illustration, present it and finalize this illustration artwork in a technique of their choice.

EPMD 2000/50 – INTRODUCTORY TOPICS IN MEDIA: STORYBOARDING (SEMINAR) (1-CREDIT COURSE)

Instructor: Mr. Michael Long

Meeting Time: Friday, February 24 and Saturday, February 25, meeting time TBA

NOTE 1: A lab fee of €30 will be charged for this course.

Class Limit: 15

This workshop covers principles and techniques useful for drawing storyboards. Storyboards provide an ideal way to plan film or video narratives by freely exploring creative choices in pre, rather than in post, production. Participants will learn to stage dramatic action in telling poses and close-ups by using frame composition to create moods and emphasize themes. They will use editing techniques to control focus, incorporate parallel action sequences and will develop clear, thematic transitions between images and scenes. During the workshop students will work individually and together to create short storyboards which demonstrate the techniques and principles covered. The development of any scripted event, no matter if it might be audio-visual work, live events or a presentation can benefit very much from a clear visual plan that can be planned and tested best by using storyboards.

INTM 1600/50 – INTRODUCTION TO INTERACTIVE DIGITAL MEDIA

Instructor: Ms. Elisabeth Knass, M.A.

Meeting Time: Monday, 11:30 a.m. – 3:30 p.m.

NOTE 1: A lab fee of €60 will be charged for this course.

Class Limit: 15

A practical introduction to interactive media. Students learn the concept, information and interactive design, production strategies, technical aspects of production and publication, and practical applications of interactive media in educational, commercial, and public environments. Students create formal design documents that include flowcharts, treatments, scripts, and storyboards. Prerequisite: EPMD 1000 OR permission of instructor.

INTM 2200/50 – VISUAL DESIGN FOR INTERACTIVE MEDIA

Instructor: Ms. Elisabeth Knass, M.A.

Meeting Time: Tuesday, 1:30 p.m. - 5:30 p.m.

NOTE: A lab fee of €60 will be charged for this course.

Class Limit: 15

Students learn to apply concepts and principles of creating integrated, interactive, and visual presentations of information. Digital graphic techniques, basic 2D-design principles, as well as optimization of graphics for use in interactive projects, manipulation of images, the effective use of color, creating intuitive visual cues for response and decision-making points and the engaging display of information are studied and practiced. The clear and effective visual communication of ideas will be stressed. Photoshop and Illustrator are used as tools in graphic interface design for interactive media in a variety of interactive contexts like website-design, DVD-navigation, etc. Students will produce independent interactive projects that will allow them to demonstrate their understanding of production from concept through completion of visual communication design. Prerequisite: INTM 1600 OR permission of instructor.

JOUR 1030/50 – FUNDAMENTALS OF REPORTING (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREA 2)

Instructor: Ms. Alison Langley

Meeting Time: Wednesday and Friday, 11:30 a.m. – 1 p.m.

NOTE 1: This is a combined course and you may register for it as MEDC 1050 or JOUR 1030.

Class Limit: 25

This course, which was adapted from Journalist's Resource, introduces tomorrow's journalists to the fundamentals of covering and writing news. Mastering these skills is no simple task. In an Internet age of instantaneous access, demand for high-quality accounts of fast-breaking news has never been greater – so has the temptation to cut corners and deliver something less. To resist this bait, reporters must acquire skills to identify a story and its essential elements, gather information efficiently, place it in a meaningful context, and write concise and compelling accounts, sometimes at breathtaking speed. The readings, discussions, exercises and assignments are designed to help students acquire these skills and understand how to exercise them wisely.

JOUR 2410/50 – INTRODUCTION TO RADIO-TV JOURNALISM (SEMESTER COURSE)

Instructors: Mr. Holger Lang, M.A. and Ms. Elisabeth Knass, M.A.

Meeting Time: Tuesday, 6 p.m. – 9 p.m.

NOTE 1: This is a combined course and you may register for it as MEDC 3150 or JOUR 2410.

NOTE 2: A lab fee of €90 will be charged for this course.

Class Limit: 15

Students learn the strategies and techniques employed in the design of creative multi-media productions used in various fields. This course will create digital interactive, web and/or audio-visual projects. Students will learn the creation of productions and presentations in areas of creative digital media by exploring all aspects necessary for successful completion of their projects. The use of photo, video or film cameras, audio-recording equipment, graphic design tools, editing software for images, video and graphic design, the use of web-applications and internet devices is possible. This class is not limited to any specific tool/media type and students can develop their own focus in their projects. Participants are encouraged to connect and combine various electronic production methods, practicing the use of a digital design and production studio. Students will learn how to develop digital interactive projects based on the utilization of digital-media tools and the potential of interactive media. The finished projects will be presented at the end of each class on the internet and if possible at actual events and will remain accessible through the Webster Vienna website. Based on production conditions, a slightly irregular class schedule will probably be applied and additional working hours might become necessary. Prerequisite: Permission of the instructor.

JOUR 3080/50 – GLOBAL JOURNALISM (SEMESTER COURSE)

Instructor: Ms. Alison Langley

Meeting Time: Wednesday and Friday, 1:30 p.m. – 3 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

Students learn strategies and techniques used by the United States and foreign countries in the management of domestic and international news. Students listen to and evaluate shortwave broadcasts from world capitals, including Moscow, London, and Beijing. Students learn the different philosophies of freedom of the press operating in international and American news media. May be repeated for credit, if taken at an international campus.

MEDC 1050/50 – INTRODUCTION TO MEDIA WRITING (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREA 2)

Instructor: Ms. Alison Langley

Meeting Time: Wednesday and Friday, 11:30 a.m. – 1 p.m.

NOTE 1: This is a combined course and you may register for it as MEDC 1050 or JOUR 1030.

Class Limit: 25

PSYCHOLOGY

PSYC 1100/50 – INTRODUCTION TO PSYCHOLOGY (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREA 8)

Instructors: Dr. Thomas Oberlechner & Dr. Birgit Stefina

Meeting Time: Monday, 10 a.m. – 1 p.m.

Class Limit: 25

On behalf of the psychology department, we want to welcome you to PSYC 1100, Introduction to Psychology. This course offers a broad introduction to the field of psychology. We will discuss basic principles of psychology, psychological research methods, and practical applications of psychology. For students who are undecided about their academic field, this course is designed as an invitation and encouragement to major or minor in Psychology. For psychology majors, the course provides the foundation from which students can pursue more advanced courses in specialized areas. For non-psychology majors, it gives an overview of an exciting academic and professional field. For all participants in this class, our goal is to make the course one of the most remarkable courses you will take at Webster University. The course is informative and entertaining. It will make you appreciate psychology as a science, and will help you realize the relevance of psychology to your own experience and personal life.

Topics include: understanding the field of psychology, research methods in psychology, biological processes, sensation and perception, consciousness and altered states, learning and conditioning, memory, cognitive processes and decision-making, intelligence, human development, motivation, emotion, stress and health, personality, psychological disorders, therapies, and social psychology.

NOTE: -Students are charged entrance fee as well as a guided tour, which will be collected by the instructor.

Class Limit: 25

This course will examine and evaluate the historical advancement of psychology. Philosophical, evolutionary, psychophysical, psychoanalytic, behaviorist, cognitive and humanistic approaches to development of psychology will be discussed. We will make a journey through the past 2500 years of various thoughts, including considerations about human mind by Aristotle, Machiavelli, Kant, Freud as well as many others. The methodology of the course will be based on interactive presentations, group work, and guest lecturers, in order to enhance our exploration of past and present scholars of psychology. Prerequisite: PSYC 1100, PSYC 2825, and 6 credits in psychology, or permission of the instructor. If you are unsure whether you meet the competency requirements, please clarify with the instructor before or during the first class meeting.

PSYC 4875/50 – ADVANCED PSYCHOLOGY LAB (1-CREDIT COURSE)

Instructor: Dr. Julia Pitters
Meeting Time: Thursday, 9 a.m. – 11 a.m.
Class Limit: 10

The Advanced Psychology Lab is offered to thesis students and advanced psychology students who are interested in understanding and producing psychological research. Its group meetings are attended by participating students, research and other psychology faculty, and invited guests. Student participants prepare their participation in each meeting of the course by reading scientific literature. In the meetings, they deepen their presentation and discussion skills by actively attending faculty and other students' research presentations. Participating thesis students give two presentations of their thesis project (setup presentation, results presentation) and receive feedback, comments, and advice from faculty and student colleagues. The Advanced Psychology Lab is offered every academic term as a pass/fail grading basis. Successful participation in the Advanced Psychology Lab course for the duration of one semester is a basic prerequisite for writing a Psychology Undergraduate Thesis and for participation in the Senior Thesis course. The group meetings of the Advanced Psychology lab usually take place every first Thursday of a month from 9-11 a.m. Additional out of class meetings are coordinated with the instructor. Prerequisites: PSYC 1100, PSYC 2750 (Introduction to Measurement and Statistics), PSYC 2825 (Introduction to Research Methods) and 6 additional credits in psychology, or permission of the instructor.

See course description above.

FRSH 1200/50 – FRESHMAN SEMINAR: HISTORY OF JAZZ (SEMESTER COURSE; 4-CREDIT COURSE)

Instructors: Mr. Jean-Pascal Vachon, M.A. & Dr. Birgit Stetina
Meeting Time: Wednesday and Friday, 1:30 p.m. – 3:30 p.m.
Class Limit: 15

Jazz is one of the most important musical innovations of the 20th century. In this seminar, we will explore chronologically the evolution of jazz from its origins to its full development, and study each style and trend as well as important figures. But as any music cannot be separated from its time and place, a large portion of the seminar will be dedicated to jazz's social and cultural context, its various manifestations in different arts and media, its impact on American culture as well as its role as a mirror of social issues. We will listen to classic performances, discuss/debate the different aspects of jazz, the esthetic values of specific recordings, the influences of jazz on other musical styles, and we will visit a jazz club. We will also take a critical look at the social context out of which jazz has evolved. (A six part ethics component will complement the material.)

FRSH 1200/51 – FRESHMAN SEMINAR: ANIMALS IN POPULAR CULTURE (SEMESTER COURSE; 4-CREDIT COURSE)

Instructors: Dr. Dorothy Kopel & Dr. Birgit Stetina
Meeting Time: Tuesday and Thursday, 6 p.m. – 8 p.m.
Class Limit: 15

In this seminar, students will explore the relationship between humans and animals through the prism of popular culture. We will examine widely promulgated ideas about three broad categories of animals (pets, wildlife, and farm animals) and observe how books, films, art, advertisements, video games, and other popular media portray animals to achieve different ends. Are animals beloved & friendly companions, distant and dignified creatures, living resources to be utilized by humans, or wild beasts who embody humanity's deepest cultural anxieties? Do popular representations influence our understanding of real animals in any meaningful way? Through considering the unstable meanings attributed to animals in diverse contexts for various reasons, students will sharpen their ability to analyze visual and literary imagery with a critical eye and to express their findings verbally, pictorially, and in writing. (A six part ethics component will complement the material.)

FRSH 1200/52 – FRESHMAN SEMINAR: CULTURAL DIVERSITY AND IDENTITY (SEMESTER COURSE; 4-CREDIT COURSE)

Instructors: Dr. Susan Doering M.A. & Dr. Birgit Stetina
Meeting Time: Tuesday and Thursday, 9 a.m. – 11 a.m.
Class Limit: 15

The course inquires into the sources and nature of culture and its relevance for our own identity building and provides an academic framework and terminology for a discussion of culture today. At the same time it develops required academic skills such as inquiry, critical thinking, note taking, time management, individual accountability, teamwork, project work, debate, presentations and writing. Webster worldwide has chosen Refugees as the special topic of the academic year, so we will also examine the question of cultural identity from the perspective of refugees.

FRSH 1200/53 – FRESHMAN SEMINAR: (SEMESTER COURSE; 4-CREDIT COURSE)

Instructors: Dr. John Moraitis & Dr. Birgit Stetina
Meeting Time: Wednesday and Friday, 9 a.m. – 11 a.m.
Class Limit: 15
TBA

GRMN 2090/50 – INTERMEDIATE GERMAN: LEVEL I (GEN. ED. AREA 6)

Meeting Time: Tuesday and Thursday, 10 a.m. – 1 p.m.
Class Limit: 15

The course strengthens speaking, listening comprehension, reading and writing skills along with consolidation of grammar and vocabulary. Students will be encouraged to express their ideas. You will learn more about the cultural characteristics of Austria and Germany. The use of English will be kept to a minimum. Prerequisite: GRMN 1100 equivalent.

PHIL 1010/50 – INTRODUCTION TO CRITICAL THINKING (SEMESTER COURSE; GEN. ED. AREA 1)

Instructor: Dr. William Fulton
Meeting Time: Tuesday and Thursday, 11:30 a.m. – 1 p.m.
Class Limit: 25

Is there any truth to the claims of those who believe in astrology, UFOs, ghosts, and ESP? What do you think about abortion, euthanasia, same-sex marriage, and military conscription? Is it possible to travel through time? Is it fair that American CEOs are paid 344 times as much as the average worker or that the richest 400 Americans have more wealth than the poorest 150 million? Are Austria's immigration laws fair? Should the rich be able to buy transplant organs from the poor? Should the EU bail out Greece? Should the UN intervene in Syria? Is there a God? What should you major in? What career should you pursue? Where should you live? What qualities should you look for in your life partner? Learn the truth about these and other controversial issues by developing your critical thinking skills! Learn how to find reliable sources of information and evaluate arguments according to their merits! Learn how to spot common fallacies in the arguments of others! Learn how to support your views with actual facts and cogent arguments. Learn how to recognize bias in the media and hype in advertising! Prerequisite: Students must have exited the ESLG program and ideally have completed WRIT 1010.

PHIL 2320/50 – CONTEMPORARY MORAL PROBLEMS: ANIMAL ETHICS (GEN. ED. AREAS 1 AND 5)

Instructors: Dr. Dorothy Kopel & Dr. Birgit Stetina
Meeting Time: Monday and Wednesday, 3:45 p.m. – 5:45 p.m.
Class Limit: 25

The treatment of animals is increasingly recognized as an important multidisciplinary issue that embraces biology, environmental science, philosophy, psychology, sociology, etc. In this course, we will investigate the ethical side of human/animal relations and consider how both theory and empirical data coming from different fields of inquiry inform our understanding of animals and our treatment of them. For instance, clinical psychology is starting to accept animal cruelty as a major risk factor regarding future deviant behaviours, while many advocates of social justice are becoming increasingly concerned with the place of animals in humane or inhumane social systems. We will survey the ways scientific research on animal consciousness and cognition inform theories and practices vis-à-vis various animals and various human uses of animals. This course will give students the opportunity to think critically about the moral and legal status of animals in our society and will provide a framework by which they can make informed judgments about how humans and nonhuman animals can or should live together on the planet we share. Prerequisite: WRIT 1010.

MATH 1050/50 – BASIC ALGEBRA

Instructor: Mag. Philip Bajo
Meeting Time: Wednesday and Friday, 11:15 a.m. – 1:15 p.m.

ESLG 3170/50 – ADVANCED DISCUSSION SKILLS

Instructor: Ms. Victoria Williams, M.A.
Meeting Time: Wednesday and Friday, 10 a.m. – 1 p.m.
Class Limit: 15

This course offers varied activities for improving discussion as an on-going process and a wide decision-making basis. A brief introduction to the philosophy of our western thinking and its application in the English language is a necessary basis for constructive and productive discussion. Students may have freedom to choose topics, write, discuss and present ideas, learning differences between opinions and facts and their application for clarity in real life discussions. Prerequisite: placement test.

ESLG 3500/50 – TOPICS: PROFILES IN COURAGE

Instructor: Mr. Andrew Horsfield, M.A.
Meeting Time: Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, 3:45 p.m. – 5:45 p.m.
Class Limit: 15

The main purpose of this course is to improve students' reading comprehension and writing skills as well as extend their English vocabulary. For this purpose we will be examining a series of essays, as well as occasional documentaries. The overall theme of the course is "Profiles in Courage", in which we shall be examining the relation between a particular culture and the "heroes" that it produces or the notion of a hero that it creates and maintains. Generation, culture, era, gender, geographical location, politics, history: how do all these flow into creating "heroes"? What needs and aspirations of the "people" flow into popular heroic figures? And how is the notion of a hero changing? Can we still speak of heroes as such? Prerequisite: Placement test.
